AND CONSTANTLY INCREASING. The Charter of this Company offers more favorable advantages to the farmer and others, than any DWELLING, which I now occupy, corner of Company chartered in the State, by insuring with or without a premium note. If the applicant a most desirable residence, having every necessary and convenient appurtenance thereto attached, in cash, or by effecting a cash insurance for two ears, the insured saves one eighth of the amount he would otherwise have to pay; or by becoming a cription is deemed unnecessary, presuming that a member, and giving a small premium note, the insured saves nearly one-half of the amount charged by Stock Companies, when insuring from year to year. This is the advantage resulting from the

CASH AND MUTUAL PRINCIPLE. This Company commenced issuing Policies against loss or damage by tire, on the 13th day of March, 1854, since which time over seven thousand seven hundred persons have insured and become members of the Company, and over seventy thou-sand dollars have been paid for losses. Having increased our business during the past year, we feel grateful for the liberal patronage bestowed upon the Company thus far, and for its flattering pros-pects of future usefulness. The Directors hope and believe, that, by prudence, caution, and a rigid system of economy, they will establish for this Company a reputation for cheapness and safety F. MISCELLANEOUS READING. ICOMMUNICATED. LINES for the benefit of those whose romantic ideas have often induced them to sigh for a "Life on the Ocean Wave." Last night feeling weary, I turned in for a "caulk," Ne'er dreaming a moment, my purpose she'd baulk, Ereten minutes passed, by Jove, may be, sooner,

I knew I was on the high seas in a schooner. She gave all at once a pitch, jump and a roll, That caused me to feel, just like yielding my soul. But before there was time to think what was the matter, I was flat on the deck, yes, could not have beer flatter. I'm informed by my friends who mentioned the fuss,

That just at this moment, they heard some one

"kuss," And say a few words detrimental of those Who could sleep holding on with their hands and their toes. But this is not all, for while one is at table,

With a wish to eat much, and digestion that's able, She gives a rough lurch, while your soup-plate's in

Which causes the beans in a pocket to land. Now, though beans are for sailors most excellent When baked with a small piece of pork, just you try it. But a plate full when hot applied to the knees,

Is sure to cause dancing such as one seldom sees. This morning the coffee at breakfast possessed, A most singular taste-like salad when dressed, And the steward quickly answered-preparing to Dem castors done capsize dar, as sure as a gun."

Each rushed to the deck, mentally uttered a vow. That the happiest life is to follow the plow, But just at this moment we are ducked with salt water, And long for starvation with some rich man's daughter. Have you any young friends, "who long for the sea" And a life of adventure so reckless and free," Would be willing to change a large barn full of

For two dozen brass buttons, and them navy coats? Should any one offer, then mention I beg, A pair of blue trousers, with gold down the leg, And an elegant hat, all trimmed round with lace, Which with pleasure I'll give, if he'll take my place. COMMUNICATED.

LINES to Miss L. H., on hearing her sing "Tis home where ere the heart is."

Oh, Lady, sing that song again, And wake again the breathing strings!

Let music pour her silver rain, And give to slumbering fancy wings! Oh, sing again! and with the lay, Bend all thy free, exultant soul. Till o'er my own, like bursting day, Its waves of gorgeous triumph roll. Sing on! it wasts me far away, Up memory's dim and stormy stream, And other fountains round me play,

And other glances on me beam, The dead and absent round me rise-Life courses on with nobler bound-I feel the glow of faded skies, And rove on youth's enchanted ground. And whilst thy tones around me rise, I deem the soul like thine should be, One through whose secret Eden, sighs, A ceaseless, golden melody-

Of all that's holy, fair and true, And bid along our pathways shine, The flush of youth's eternal dew. Sing on! the hardest nature bows. To music's high subduing spell, Grim envy smooths his scowling brows, While soft her raptures round him swell. Great Orpheus swept his royal lyre-

Whose voice should be the seal and sign,

Hills bowed and demons held their breath. And vengeance felt her wrath expire, Through all the doleful realm of Death. Oh! woman's eye, a lovelier light-Her brow a nobler glory wears, When lofty thought in gentler might, The throne with soft affection shares!

Then lady wake that strain again

And bid it showers of silver rain,

With all thy free exultant soul,

Through Fancy's listering empire foll. NEMO. EXCURSION TO GLYMONT ON JULY 4th. SEWING ROOMS—SEWING DONE BY THE WHEELER & WILSON SEWING MA-CHINE .- At the earnest solicitation of many of my customers, I have been induced to open rooms for sewing. I shall from this date have all kinds of sewing done, and upon all kinds of goods, and in a prompt manner, and to the entire satisfaction of those leaving their work to be done. It is useless to say any thing of the stitch and durability of the work done by the Wheeler & Wilson Machine, as nearly every one is familiar with it. Those who are not can see samples of the work by calling at my store. To those who wish to purchase Machines this arrangement will be a peculiar advantage, as they can call and see the Machine in operation, learn its manner of working, and if they prefer it, select a Machine that has been used some time. W. B. RICHARDS, JR., je 29 Agent for the Wheeler & Wilson Co. HALLOTYPES! HALLOTYPES!!
